

Tall and slim Mr Bar strode through the cobbled road
His skin, a burnished brass with flecks of gold
His step firm and square toed
His tailored jacket, his polished leather shoes
A man of many ideals, many attributes, many hues.
Deep rooted in minimalistic simplicity
He lived in his truth, in his credibility, in his authenticity.

Miss Cirque as her name implied
Had come a full circle from the norms she once defied
While she had wholeheartedly relished a scandalous single life
Miss Cirque now yearned to be somebody's scandalous wife
The belle of the ball, she was always shapely and well rounded
In spite of her vanity, her heart was kind and her feet well grounded.

As fate would have it, Mr Bar and Miss Cirque did cross paths
Their union had a handcrafted aftermath
Mr Bar took a detour from his steady unattached life
And found himself in the arms of his fiery impassioned wife.

Strong Mr Bar was her pillar, her support
They fit together like an intricate design, a puzzle piece of sorts
Their passion to discover, to innovate, to inspire
To shape the world is what they hoped to aspire.

Their symmetry, their geometry, their unique connection
His edges, her curves- a multi layered dimension
Their story conceptualized far from the norms of convention
Androgyny, gender equality, non conformity are the anthems of this collection.

- Merlyn George